

Rosie Revere is a young inventor, always coming up with ingenious solutions for life's challenges, but she's too shy to show them to anyone. A visit from her great-great-aunt Rose, who reveals that her greatest wish is to fly, inspires Rosie to invent a flying machine to help Aunt Rose achieve her ambition. Rosie learns that failures are a necessary part of the inventing process and help to get to the next stage and eventually on to success. This is a book that will encourage conversations around perfection and expectation, with delightfully detailed illustrations.
